

A Closer Look at AEC Cares 2026: Project San Diego

[Article originally appeared in www.constructconnect.com]

By Monica Soladay

Each year, AEC Cares brings together architecture, engineering, and construction professionals for a day of service centered on community renovation projects. The results not only transform buildings, they also change lives.

This year, the 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization brought together around 150 volunteers for a one-day “blitz build” benefiting Rachel’s Women’s Center in San Diego. Operated by Catholic Charities Diocese of San Diego (CCDSD), the center serves as a refuge for women experiencing homelessness in the San Diego community.

About Rachel’s Women’s Center

Rachel’s Women’s Center offers a supportive, trauma-informed environment for women experiencing homelessness. In addition to providing a safe space, the center offers wrap-around services that connect women with health services, housing support, and other resources as they navigate a path toward stability and self-sufficiency. The center also recognizes the healing role of animal companionship by allowing women to bring emotional support pets into the shelter.

Housed in a 100-year-old building, the resource center has been operated by CCDSD for more than 40 years. Through grants and private donations, Rachel’s Women’s Center has sustained its mission for decades despite limited funding and growing community needs.

This Year’s AEC Cares Renovation

This much-needed renovation was designed to reflect the dignity, compassion, and welcoming environment Rachel’s Women’s Center provides each day in its 4,500-square-foot facility. Updates focused on improving space utilization through a more efficient floor plan, refreshing the interior with new décor and furniture, and creating a more welcoming environment where clients can refresh, regroup, and receive support.

About AEC Cares

ConstructConnect is the founding member and presenting sponsor of AEC Cares. This year’s #ProjectSanDiego — made possible through financial and in-kind support from numerous industry partners and pro bono collaboration from Stantec and Whiting-Turner — is the latest chapter in more than a decade of community service.

Declaration of Independence - In Congress, July 4, 1776

[Article originally appeared in www.goodandbeautiful.com]

By The Good and the Beautiful

The Declaration of Independence is an inspiring document written 250 years ago. It speaks of freedom, justice, and liberty for all Americans. Read on to learn about this document’s powerful history.

The following Declaration of Independence text includes original spelling and punctuation, as written by the Founding Fathers. This transcript is taken from the William J. Stone engraving of the parchment Declaration of Independence, which, in addition to the original parchment of the Declaration of Independence, is on display in the Rotunda at the National Archives Museum.

Find more information about the Declaration of Independence on the National Archives website.

The unanimous Declaration of the thirteen united States of America, When in the Course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature’s God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness.—That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, —That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shewn, that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object evinces a design to reduce them under absolute Despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such Government, and to provide new Guards for their future security.—Such has been the patient sufferance of these Colonies; and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former Systems of Government. The history of the present King of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute Tyranny over these States. To prove this, let Facts be submitted to a candid world.

He has refused his Assent to Laws, the most wholesome and necessary for the public good.

He has forbidden his Governors to pass Laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operation till his Assent should be obtained; and when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them.

He has refused to pass other Laws for the accommodation of large districts of people, unless those people would relinquish the right of Representation in the Legislature, a right inestimable to them and formidable to tyrants only.

He has called together legislative bodies at places unusual, uncomfortable, and distant from the depository of their public Records, for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into compliance with his measures.

WORKFORCE MANAGEMENT

Thinking of AI Agents as Members of a Construction Crew

[Article originally appeared in <https://constructionexec.com>]

By Sam Giffin

Access alone to AI doesn’t provide an advantage if that AI is not utilized properly.

Imagine that a vast and well-organized library opens five miles away tomorrow. This library contains millions of books—technical manuals, historical project documentation, best practices, cost benchmarks, design patterns, regulatory updates and insights from subject matter experts across the industry.

The business owner doesn’t walk to the library themselves. There’s far too much construction work to do in their office. Instead, they send couriers who know how to find books, copy pages, summarize chapters and bring information back to read. Not all couriers are equal; some have small bags, while some drive vans filled with bookshelves. Some are experts themselves and will spend time at the library answering questions, while some can barely be trusted with the checklist of information. Some couriers are part of the library delivery system, while others are contracted out based on their skill or the needs of the area.

Welcome to the world of modern AI technology, revolutionized by the growth in popularity and capabilities of large language models. The library is the AI corpus of knowledge. Couriers are AI agents, constrained only by their carrying capacity, their pre-existing expertise and their access within the library. The construction business pays for access to the library based on how much information (input tokens) they provide the couriers for retrieval and pay again based on how many books or notes (output tokens) they return.

He has dissolved Representative Houses repeatedly, for opposing with manly firmness his invasions on the rights of the people.

He has refused for a long time, after such dissolutions, to cause others to be elected; whereby the Legislative powers, incapable of Annihilation, have returned to the People at large for their exercise; the State remaining in the mean time exposed to all the dangers of invasion from without, and convulsions within.

He has endeavoured to prevent the population of these States; for that purpose obstructing the Laws for Naturalization of Foreigners; refusing to pass others to encourage their migrations hither, and raising the conditions of new Appropriations of Lands.

He has obstructed the Administration of Justice, by refusing his Assent to Laws for establishing Judiciary powers.

He has made Judges dependent on his Will alone, for the tenure of their offices, and the amount and payment of their salaries.

He has erected a multitude of New Offices, and sent hither swarms of Officers to harrass our people, and eat out their substance.

He has kept among us, in times of peace, Standing Armies without the Consent of our legislatures.

He has affected to render the Military independent of and superior to the Civil power.

He has combined with others to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitution, and unacknowledged by our laws; giving his Assent to their Acts of pretended Legislation:

For Quartering large bodies of armed troops among us:

For protecting them, by a mock Trial, from punishment for any Murders which they should commit on the Inhabitants of these States:

For cutting off our Trade with all parts of the world:

For imposing Taxes on us without our Consent:

For depriving us in many cases, of the benefits of Trial by Jury:

For transporting us beyond Seas to be tried for pretended offences

For abolishing the free System of English Laws in a neighbouring Province, establishing therein an Arbitrary government, and enlarging its Boundaries so as to render it at once an example and fit instrument for introducing the same absolute rule into these Colonies:

For taking away our Charters, abolishing our most valuable Laws, and altering fundamentally the Forms of our Governments:

For suspending our own Legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever.

He has abdicated Government here, by declaring us out of his Protection and waging War against us.

He has plundered our seas, ravaged our Coasts, burnt our towns, and destroyed the lives of our people.

He is at this time transporting large Armies of foreign Mercenaries to compleat the works of death, desolation and tyranny, already begun with circumstances of Cruelty & perfidy scarcely paralleled in the most barbarous ages, and totally unworthy the Head of a civilized nation.

He has constrained our fellow Citizens taken Captive on the high Seas to bear Arms against their Country, to become the executioners of their friends and Brethren, or to fall themselves by their Hands.

He has excited domestic insurrections amongst us, and has endeavoured to bring on the inhabitants of our frontiers, the merciless Indian Savages, whose known rule of warfare, is an undistinguished destruction of all ages, sexes and conditions.

In every stage of these Oppressions We have Petitioned for Redress in the most humble terms: Our repeated Petitions have been answered only by repeated injury. A Prince whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a Tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free people.

Nor have We been wanting in attentions to our British brethren. We have warned them from time to time of attempts by their legislature to extend an unwarrantable jurisdiction over us. We have reminded them of the circumstances of our emigration and settlement here. We have appealed to their native justice and magnanimity, and we have conjured them by the ties of our common kindred to disavow these usurpations, which, would inevitably interrupt our connections and correspondence. They too have been deaf to the voice of justice and of consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the necessity, which denounces our Separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind, Enemies in War, in Peace Friends.

We, therefore, the Representatives of the united States of America, in General Congress, Assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions, do, in the Name, and by Authority of the good People of these Colonies, solemnly publish and declare, That these United Colonies are, and of Right ought to be Free and Independent States; that they are Absolved from all Allegiance to the British Crown, and that all political connection between them and the State of Great Britain, is and ought to be totally dissolved; and that as Free and Independent States, they have full Power to levy War, conclude Peace, contract Alliances, establish Commerce, and to do all other Acts and Things which Independent States may of right do. And for the support of this Declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our Lives, our Fortunes and our sacred Honor.

AEC Cares began in New Orleans in 2011 with its first project repairing homes damaged by Hurricane Katrina. Since then, the organization has brought the construction industry together for days of service in cities including Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Denver, Houston, Las Vegas, Orlando, Philadelphia, San Francisco, and Washington, D.C.

Voices From Our Team

Although the transformation happens in a single day, each project is made possible by more than a year of planning by the AEC Cares Steering Committee. This small group of volunteers from the ConstructConnect team helps scout the site for each year’s project, work with pro bono designers to define the renovation scope, and secure the sponsors and volunteers needed to bring each effort to life.

What brings team members back to volunteer each year? Some of our Steering Committee members shared their thoughts:

“It’s one thing to plan these events. It’s another to roll up your sleeves, be part of the renovation, and see the impact firsthand. I’ll never forget two eight-year-old boys who jumped on our volunteer bus in 2016 after we transformed their youth center. They walked down the aisle, hugged every single volunteer, and thanked us for changing their space. In that moment, I was hooked.”

— Derek Guffey, AEC Cares Board Member and ConstructConnect Vice President, Sales

“I began volunteering for AEC Cares since our first project in New Orleans in 2011. I have the honor of serving on our Board and was again Project Manager this year. Over the decades I have been blessed and for me the best part of AEC Cares is to be able to pay it forward to make life a little better for those who are less fortunate and struggling to live and build a life. If my service can help even one person, then the time and effort is well worth the investment.”

— John Royster, AEC Cares Board Member and ConstructConnect Vice President, Customer Support & Operations and ConstructConnect Vice President, Sales

“What I love about AEC Cares is seeing so many people come together around a shared purpose and turn cross-company coordination into real impact. Supporting the planning behind the San Diego project has shown me how every detail helps make it possible for this group to come together and complete a remodel in one day for Rachel’s Women’s Shelter. It’s a powerful reminder of what we can accomplish when we align our efforts to do good.”

California launches a tool to monitor AI’s workforce impacts.

[Article originally appeared in www.gov.ca.gov]

Governor Gavin Newsom announced the launch of California’s first-in-the-nation tool to proactively track AI-related job loss trends – an early warning system to help the state monitor, track, and anticipate job loss. The dashboard was developed in partnership with the University of California, California Policy Lab and released as part of the Governor’s recent executive order issued to prepare workers, small businesses, and communities for the economic disruption that artificial intelligence will bring.

“California has always been a place that embraces innovation while taking seriously the responsibility that comes with it. We’re shaping the future — and charting the course for the nation. As AI advances, we aren’t just watching from the sidelines; we’re reimagining how we prepare California through strong governance and innovative policy.

I thank our partners at the California Policy Lab for helping us lead the way.”

— Governor Gavin Newsom

Tracking and monitoring AI impacts

The California AI-Unemployment Tracker is a publicly available dashboard developed in partnership between the researchers at the California Policy Lab’s UCLA site and the California Employment Development Department. The tool is designed not only to inform policymakers but also to help Californians better understand how AI is intersecting with the workforce and the broader job market.

“The AI-Unemployment Tracker provides us with a clearer picture of how AI is affecting working people and jobs, and where we need to focus support and training. By grounding our decisions in data, we can respond early and strengthen pathways into good jobs to ensure California’s workforce is able to adapt and thrive as technology evolves.” Stewart Knox, Secretary of the Labor & Workforce Development Agency

“AI is advancing quickly, and workers’ concerns about what that could mean for their jobs are real,” said co-author Till von Wachter, Professor of Economics at UCLA and Faculty Director of the California Policy Lab’s UCLA site. “This new tracker helps replace speculation with evidence, giving us a clearer understanding of what’s changing and how to best support affected workers.”

The tracker, which will be updated monthly, provides early indicators of possible AI-related job displacement, allowing the state to proactively identify where interventions — such as job-search support, retraining and upskilling opportunities, health-coverage guidance, and other essential resources may be needed most.

“The California AI unemployment tracker is a great tool for identifying the impacts and opportunities coming from rapidly developing technology,” said EDD Director Nancy Farias. “It will give us valuable insight into workforce trends so we can better connect Californians with the resources, training, and support they need to succeed.”

Initial data shows no evidence of rising unemployment from AI

Paired with the tracker is a comprehensive analysis of the data, which at this time shows no evidence of rising statewide unemployment claims in AI-exposed occupations.

However, the data does demonstrate impacts to workers in high-exposure AI positions following the expansion of AI software available to the public. For example, claims from college-educated workers in occupations with high AI exposure increased after ChatGPT-3.5’s release in 2022, and workers in occupations with high potential AI exposure in the San Francisco Bay Area also experienced a sustained increase. The data did not show large disproportionate increases by race, ethnicity, gender, or age, in the number of high-AI-exposure UI claimants.

“Right now, we are not seeing evidence of large-scale AI-related layoffs in California’s labor market,” said co-author Dr. Ben Hyman, Senior Researcher at the California Policy Lab. “But we do see patterns in certain regions like the Bay Area, in certain tech-heavy sectors, and among highly AI-exposed workers with college degrees. It will be important to continue monitoring trends for those workers, as well as others, so that policymakers can respond appropriately.”

Protecting workers from AI disruption

The report and database were released in response to the Governor’s first-in-the-nation executive order, which mobilizes state agencies, labor experts, economists, universities, and industry leaders to develop new policies, gather data, and identify early warning signs of workforce disruption — while ensuring workers share in the gains created by AI-driven productivity.

This executive order is the third issued by Governor Newsom to help spur innovation, assess risk, and create stronger AI policy in California — which is guiding the nation in its comprehensive approach in creating common-sense guardrails balanced with opportunities to advance innovation in this growing sector.

Leading the way in AI

California is home to 33 of the top 50 private AI companies in the world, and no state has taken more aggressive action to strengthen the safety, security, and consumer privacy of technology and online platforms.

In 2023, Governor Newsom made California the first state to take action on Generative AI policy, announcing an executive order to both responsibly adopt this technology in state government and begin studying its risks. The Governor convened world-leading academic experts to draft the California Report on Frontier AI Policy, providing the state with policy recommendations that helped lead to the Governor’s signature on the first state legislation nationwide, the Transparency in Frontier Technology Act (Senate Bill 53, Wiener)
